

Hong Kong Zero Carbon Partnership

Membership Application Form

Background of the Partnership

The Hong Kong Zero Carbon Partnership is a research initiative funded by the Construction Industry Council and led by The University of Hong Kong with support from a number of organisations including Zero Carbon Building Ltd., Hong Kong Housing Authority, Hong Kong Green Building Council, China Trend Building Press, Pennsylvania State University, and Zero Carbon Hub. This initiative aims to help position Hong Kong as a world-class knowledge-based, innovation-driven and multi-stakeholder-engaged hub for zero carbon building in urban environments.

Zero carbon buildings are far more than a technological solution, but complex socio-technical systems. It is therefore important to enhance public and stakeholder engagement in the plan and delivery of zero carbon buildings. The Hong Kong Zero Carbon Partnership will function as a mechanism to bridge the links between the public and many stakeholder groups in Hong Kong and beyond, and provide a platform to support the transition of the buildings and the built environment in Hong Kong towards zero carbon and sustainability.

Membership fee

To join the Partnership is entirely voluntary. There is no membership charge.

Membership benefits

- Access to the state-of-the-art knowledge of the principles, practices, policies and priorities of zero carbon building worldwide
